Embrace your not-perfectness for a ‘happily ever after’

One day at the library, a book fell off a shelf and hit a boy named Milo Crinkley on the head.

The title, “Be a Perfect Person in Just Three Days,” was just what he needed.

Wanting more than anything to be perfect, Milo checked the book out and set out to do everything the author, Dr. K. Pinkerson Silverfish, prescribed.

So begins the 1982 children’s book “Be a Perfect Person in Just Three Days” by Stephen Manes.

As Milo discovered, to be perfect he had to follow three steps perfectly. On day one he had to wear a stalk of broccoli around his neck like a necklace all day. When asked about it, he said he had a rare disease that only a broccoli necklace could cure.

Day two: Milo had to go without eating for the entire day. Day three: Milo was required to do absolutely nothing for 24 hours – no TV, no crocheting, singing or reading, no playing cards, snapping fingers, eating or even sleeping.

He endured the embarrassment of having to wear broccoli and he was able to not eat for 24 hours, but Milo failed at doing nothing. (He fell asleep.) He was crestfallen when he realized he couldn’t achieve perfection.

The story ends with Milo learning that “perfect means never doing anything wrong, which means never doing anything at all. Therefore, perfect is boring.” The moral of the story: Embrace your not-perfectness and you’ll live happily ever after.

It’s a cute book, but terrible theology, since God demands perfection. And that’s a huge problem for us imperfect humans.

Even so, like Milo, lots of us try to be as perfect as we can be, whether we’re aware of it or not. You can tell by asking people if they think they’re going to heaven after they die, and if yes, why they think they will.

Those who say they will because they try to do more good than bad, because they pray, because they go to church and put money in the offering plate, because they read the Bible – those who give these reasons are like Milo Crinkley, hoping to be perfect by trying.

The truth is, those people who are perfect, who obey every single law of God from the day they’re born until their last breath will have earned their way into heaven. But that takes too much work, and for most of us, if not all, we’ve managed to break a commandment or two, which disqualifies us.

Stamper celebrates 50-plus years behind the pulpit

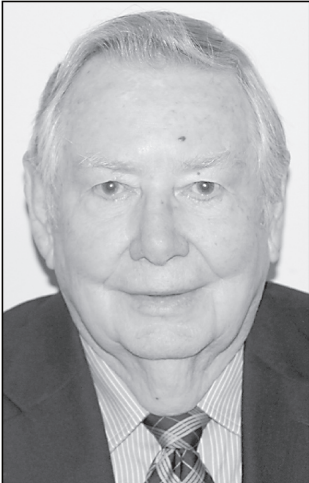

By BEN HYATT, NEWS WRITER

It is one thing to celebrate an 85th birthday and another to celebrate over 50 years of doing the same heavenly thing.

Brother Paul Stamper will soon be 85 years old, but that is not what he is most proud of.

Stamper has devoted the last 50-plus years of his life to churches by taking his rightful and familiar place behind the pulpit.

"Years ago I was able to stand before a congregation and recite scripture for almost an hour," said Stamper. "I was very proud that I not only knew the scripture but Bro. Paul Stamper what it meant too." Stamper began his long career of preaching in 1951, when he assumed the role of pastor at Virden Church of Christ in Clay City, Ky.

Stamper would remain at Virden until he was called to duty during the Korean War, where he spent 20 months in active service.

After his military career was over, Stamper attended Cincinnati Bible Seminary, however he found himself back in the pulpit before completing his schooling.

"I was attending college and was asked if I was interested in preaching at a small church in Gardnersville," said Stamper.

Stamper said he spent the next 14 years at Gardnersville preaching but was never officially hired.

"After my first sermon they asked if I would be back next week and I said I would if they wanted me to," laughed Stamper. "We did that for 14 years."

Stamper then spent four years at Salem Christian Church before making his way to Central Christian where he remained in the pulpit for 28 years.

"At times we averaged 211 at Central," said Stamper. "I must have been doing something right."

Unfortunately, a heart-attack caused Stamper to resign from the position of pastor at Central Christian.

Stamper spent the next four years recovering from his heart problems before taking his place back as pastor of Gardnersville Christian where he had preached several years prior.

"I have always enjoyed working with people," said Stamper. "I especially enjoy the one-on-one time. That is when you can really fix problems in lives."

Stamper said he prefers an older method of preaching by simply preaching straight from the Bible.

"I get discouraged when preachers want to only talk about themselves and how everyone should change," said Stamper. "The Bible is for shaping everyone, preachers included."

On Dec 30, at 2:30 p.m. Oddville Christian is hosting a celebration of Paul Stamper's 85th birthday and a review of his more than 50 years in the ministry.

K. Bruce Florence, LVC Campus Director, read from the new edition of A Kentucky Christmas along with George Ella Lyon, editor and several other authors whose work appears in paperback edition of this Christmas classic at the Joseph Beth Book Store in Lexington, KY on Monday, Dec. 17.

From 75 YEARS, front page

"There was a Baptist preacher in town that said we wouldn't last because we were married by a Christian preacher," laughed Mary. "I guess we showed him."

During the early years, James and Marry worked hard on a farm in the Tricum area, where they worked in tobacco and milked cows for 28 years.

"I saw that the work was hard on her so I wanted to do something different," said James. "So I got a job at Ladish and worked there for 15 years and retired."

The loving couple raised three children, Elizabeth Wade, Charles Reffett and Vivian Lail.

From the three children came seven grandchildren, 10 great-grandchildren and eight great-great-grandchildren with one due in March of 2013.

The two said that their marriage success has been ensured by always being there for one another.

"We always were together because we never liked being apart," said James. "We traveled everywhere together and with friends."

The two recalled several visits to Gatlinburg, Tenn., Texas and even the nation's capital in Washington with their great-grandchildren.

"We would walk around the town or go to church," said James. "Always went to church and did a lot of growing there."

As for getting along at home, James said Mary always had the upper-hand in disputes.

"We really never fought but if we did we settled before dark," said James. "We would start arguing and all she had to do was start crying and the argument was over as far as I was concerned."

James said that he never did once want to leave his bride's side.

"If you have the best then there is no reason to ever leave it," said James.

James was unable to recall what it was that caught his eye while looking through the window of the church over 75 years ago, but Mary was able to give a reason for giving him a chance.

"He was good looking compared to others around," laughed Mary. "I knew I didn't need to look any further than him."

James said in order to keep a marriage going, a couple must learn how to give and take.

"We were not perfect, but we never went to bed angry," said James. "We always made time for each other and it has worked for us. The Lord picked me a good one."

James and Mary will celebrate their 75 anniversary on Dec. 30 at their great-grandchild, Jenny Nichols' home with their family.

James added that due to both him and Mary being cancer survivors, they both never expected to live as long as they have.

"We have lived past what we thought we would," said James. "But there was never a doubt that we wouldn't do it together."

Is there snow in our future? Be prepared

We didn't get that white Christmas I was pulling for this year, but weather forecasters are promising some snow for our future.

Becky Barnes
Editor

I'm not nearly the fan I once was, but certainly I get excited about a forecast that could bring some snow our way.

I like it best if it's a day (or two) that I'm going to be home and not out on the roads. It's great to cozy up in the house and watch it snow.

Unfortunately, the biggest snowfalls generally happen during the week when most of us have some place we have to be.

That puts us all out on the roads and behind a wheel that we are unsure of when it comes to driving in the snow.

I'm huge proponent of learning to drive in the snow. It's something every driver should know. And, the best place to learn is a vacant parking lot.

My own experiences in the snow led me to that conclusion.

It's been several years since my snow-driving, or should I say sliding, ordeals.

The first came one evening after getting off of work. There wasn't much snow, just a coating on the trees and lawns. Nothing had accumulated on the streets by the time I was ready to leave work.

So I hopped in my little Mustang, which is notorious for being terrible in snow, and began making my way home.

By the time I got to Northside Elementary, the road was covered with probably three or four inches of snow.

As I started down the hill, the rear end of my car wanted to meet the front end. I slipped and slid and finally made the bottom of the hill. Then, when I went to give it gas to begin the climb up the next rise, the back end swung around and lo I was in the ditch.

I got out of the car to assess my situation just as another vehicle pulled to the side of the road to lend a helping hand.

"I believe we can push you outta there," said the kindly gentleman.

"No you can't," I insisted.

"Sure, it'll be no problem," he countered.

"You may as well leave it there, I'm not driving it anywhere," I said stubbornly.

"I don't think you want to leave it here; it will be buried by morning."

That really didn't sound all so unappealing to me at that moment.

Finally, the man, who was on his way to Falmouth with a friend, said he would drive my car to Antioch.

Yes, that was fine with me.

Then, in the early 80s, I was covering a late-night fiscal court meeting. When we went into the meeting, the roads were clear. When we came out, there was probably four or five inches of snow on the streets and roads.

I had the original SUV, an International Scout that maybe got five miles to the gallon.

I knew in my mind that I would be fine if I put the Scout in 4-wheel drive for my 13-mile trek north of town. However, I also knew that I would be a nervous wreck.

So, for my own peace of mind, I called my husband and had him drive (a rear-wheel drive) back into town from Antioch to pick me up and take me home.

He assured me that I would be fine, but I assured him that I wouldn't.

He made the trip.

I did have the Scout warmed up for him so we could take it home.

I have improved over the years, but not before I had my boss come to Antioch to pick me and my daughter up one snowy morning and numerous mornings that I got to work at 6 a.m. by riding with Ernie as he went to Lexington to work.

Over the next couple of months we could get some measurable snow. The Kentucky State Police issued a press release this week offering winter driving tips.

The No. 1 tip is to be prepared.

"Winter provides new challenges and responsibilities to the public and the Kentucky State Police," says KSP Commissioner Rodney Brewer.

"We ask that drivers be prepared to meet the challenges of the upcoming winter season in Kentucky. Plan ahead, make sure everyone in the vehicle is properly restrained, drive defensively and be sure the vehicle is properly maintained to handle the effects of cold temperatures."

KSP reported that slippery roads were the contributing factor in 14,913 crashes and 63 fatalities in 2011.

Here are a few simple steps to help keep you on the road and less stressed.

- Avoid travel unless necessary when winter weather is in your area.
- Decrease speed.

- Wear your seatbelt.

Driving Considerations

Leave early – allow more travel time; expect delays.

Increase distance between vehicles – it takes significantly longer to stop on snow-covered or icy roadways.

Clear all windows on your vehicle prior to travel – having unobstructed vision is vital to avoid running off of the road or having a collision.

Illuminate your vehicles headlamps.

Use caution on bridges and overpasses as they are susceptible to freezing before roadways.

Avoid using cruise control – cruise can cause the vehicle's wheels to continue turning on a slippery surface when speed needs to be decreased.

Be Prepared

Ensure your vehicle has a full tank of gas in the event you are stranded for an extended period of time.

Charge your cellular phone prior to departure.

Take a blanket.

Notify a family member or a friend of your travel plans prior to departure – if your travel is interrupted, someone will know

Collision Information

Be patient – weather also limits our capabilities and increases our response time; also keep in mind that we will be experiencing a high volume of requests for service.

Attempt to move your vehicle out of the roadway if you are involved in a minor, non-injury traffic collision; especially if you are in a dangerous area such as a curve or a blind hill.

If your vehicle is stranded or wrecked but not in the roadway, attempts to recover your vehicle will have to wait until conditions improve for safety considerations.

Citizens can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at 1-800-222-5555. Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number if possible.

Be safe this winter.

Kentucky shows positive times ahead

As we celebrate the holidays and ready for the new year, many of us may find ourselves taking a moment to recall the positive things in our lives.

Statewide, there has been some good news in recent months worth noting. The job market overall is looking somewhat better, with the state's unemployment rate down, and we're working on improving the economy here in our legislative district.

A national ranking this year showed us doing well among the states in the number of new start-up companies, and the news channel CNBC recently reported that Kentucky has the lowest cost of doing business. Both of these point to a promising 2013.

Beyond our economy, good news can be found at our schools as well. Early this year, the respected "Education Week" magazine put Kentucky 14th among the states in its "Quality Counts" report, which measures academic progress.

Our fourth graders, meanwhile, are among the top 10 states in reading for that grade, and eighth graders are just behind them at 12th for their class. In high school, we've seen the number of students taking and passing the difficult Advanced Placement courses almost double in the last five years. These AP classes provide college credit for students who score high enough.

Tom McKee
State Rep.

For farmers, it turned out that the past year was not as bad as once feared when we were going through the summer's tough drought. Overall commodity sales this year are expected to be a record $5 billion, and University of Kentucky economists predict it could rise as much as $600 million next year because of increased demand worldwide and high commodity prices.

With Kentucky relying more on farm exports than most other states, that trend is good to hear.

Another positive trend we're seeing is the steep decline in the cost of natural gas. The Kentucky Public Service Commission says that prices are now at the lowest they've been in a decade, and are 43 percent less than they were in 2008.

In addition to seeing more money come in, we're also good at giving back, especially for those in need. According to the Chronicle of Philanthropy, Kentucky is 15th among the states when it comes to charitable giving.

In a related study done several years ago, researchers also found that we are neighborly as well. It showed that nine out of 10 adults here said they had at least one other person they could rely on outside of family during times of emergency, indicating strong community ties.

As a nation, the past couple of weeks have been especially trying, but in times like these, we always seem to find a way to reach out and help however we can. Despite the evil that we see all too often in the world, I still believe that there is far more that is good.

For now, I hope you have had a good holiday season with family and friends, and that the upcoming year turns out to be even better. As you may know, the 2013 legislative session is set to begin on January 8th, and while there will be no budget to enact this time, there is still a sizeable list of issues to cover. I will detail those further as the session gets underway.

As always, I encourage you to let me know your thoughts and views during this time. If you would like to contact me, you can write to Room 332B, Capitol Annex, 702 Capitol Avenue, Frankfort, KY 40601.

You can also leave a message for me or for any legislator at 800-372-7181. For those with a hearing impairment, the number is 800-896-0305.

I hope to hear from you soon.

Harrison's unemployment rate drops from November 2011

Unemployment rates fell in 99 Kentucky counties, including Harrison, between November 2011 and November 2012, while 20 county rates increased and one stayed the same, according to the Kentucky Office of Employment and Training, an agency of the Kentucky Education and Workforce Development Cabinet. Harrison County's unemployment dropped from 8.7 percent in November 2011 to 6.9 percent in November 2012. The Cabinet identifies 640 Harrison County residents as being unemployed in a work force of 9,311. Woodford County recorded the lowest jobless rate in the Commonwealth at 5.4 percent. It was followed by Scott County, 5.9 percent; Fayette, Franklin, Oldham and Union counties, 6 percent each; Daviess, Madison and Shelby counties, 6.2 percent each; and Ohio and Owen counties, 6.3 percent each. Magoffin County recorded the state's highest unemployment rate — 15.1 percent. It was followed by Fulton

County, 15 percent; Letcher County, 13.3 percent; Harlan, Knott and Leslie counties, 13 percent each; Jackson County, 12.9 percent; Bell County, 12.7 percent; Wolfe County, 12.6 percent; and Perry County, 12.2 percent. Unemployment statistics are based on estimates and are compiled to measure trends rather than actually to count people working. Civilian labor force statistics include non-military workers and unemployed Kentuckians who are actively seeking work. They do not include unemployed Kentuckians who have not looked for employment within the past four weeks. The statistics in this news release are not seasonally adjusted to allow for comparisons between United States, state and county figures.

Bourbon Hospital recognized by CMS

Many people have heard the buzz of healthcare reform and are aware, to some degree, the healthcare industry has experienced major changes over the last few years and it will continue to evolve. While the changes are numerous and complex, a few key themes stand out: the increased focus on quality care and the growing role of technology in healthcare delivery.

These are two issues that you can see played out locally at Bourbon Community Hospital. "Our hospital's top priority has been and will continue to be providing high quality care to patients in our community," stated Joe Koch, CEO. "This focus has not changed for us. What has changed is how we are using technology to arm our employees and clinicians with the proper tools to help us provide the highest quality of evidence-based patient care possible."

A recent example is Bourbon Community Hospital's recognition by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) for successfully completing the first of three stages in the process of becoming a meaningful user of technology.

Bourbon Community Hospital earned this recognition by demonstrating that their employees and medical staff are utilizing Electronic Health Records (EHRs) in an effective way that will help advance patient care.

This is a major milestone and one for which hospitals across the country — rural and urban, acute care and regional referral centers alike — have been challenged by CMS to achieve.

"Achieving the first stage of 'meaningful use,' as CMS calls it, took the dedication of employees across nearly all clinical and non-clinical departments of our hospital. We leveraged our EHR technology to transfer patient records from paper to digital formats, which will make them more easily accessible and useful to clinicians. Several process changes were implemented, including how patients are registered when they arrive at our hospital, how we document the care we provide, and how we measure patient care results," Mr. Koch explained.

The process of completing the final two stages of Meaningful Use recognition will occur over the next few years, and Bourbon Community Hospital employees are committed to continuing on their path to success.

The outcome of achieving Meaningful Use is that Bourbon Community Hospital will be able to collect and share information and critical data that can be utilized on the spot by medical staff to make informed patient care decisions and support the delivery of high quality care. To celebrate its success, Bourbon Community Hospital held a celebration reception for its employees on Dec. 17 in the hospital's cafeteria. Lona Sadler, RN, Clinical Informatics Nurse, was recognized for the role she played in achieving this goal.

Eastside third grade classroom students brought in donations of hygiene items for the Cynthiana Food Pantry during December. Students are shown holding a few of the many items that they collected.

KYTC District 6 crews are ready for snow time

The Kentucky Transportation Cabinet District 6 snow and ice removal crews are gearing up for the 2012-13 snow season. In anticipation of the season's first winter event that is forecasted to hit the Northern Kentucky area this week, officials are monitoring the anticipated snow storm and will mobilize crews accordingly.

Pre-treating with salt brine for this snow event would be ineffective due to the already wet pavement conditions. This snow storm is predicted to continue into the Friday morning commute.

To help assure that trucks can treat roads quickly, Transportation Cabinet officials ask motorists to help efforts by giving salt trucks space so they can do their job.

The variables of this storm will start with warm pavement conditions, warmer air temperatures, followed by air temperatures dropping considerably and gusting winds which can produce scattered and unpredictable snow squalls as well as the potential for areas of black ice.

Drivers are also reminded that bridges and overpasses are typically the most treacherous. Motorists should use extreme caution when traveling during this winter weather event.

Maintenance crews in KYTC District 6 have responsibility for clearing 2,000 miles of state-maintained highways in the counties of Boone, Bracken, Campbell, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant, Harrison, Kenton, Owen, Pendleton and Robertson. That equates to more than 4,500 "lane miles" - all driving lanes from rural state roads to interstate highways. District 6 state maintenance crews are prepared to work to keep roads in the best possible condition during winter weather.

District 6 has 30,000 tons of salt on hand in its storage domes located at the state maintenance facilities and 124 trucks available to treat state highways and interstates.

In the Northern Kentucky counties of Boone, Kenton and Campbell there are 62 trucks available for snow and ice removal - three of which will concentrate solely on the "Cut in the Hill", the six mile section of I-75 between Buttermilk Pike and the Brent Spence Bridge.

As KYTC crews have made preparations for clearing roadways, motorists should also be prepared for driving in snow and ice by following these tips:

Make sure your vehicle is sufficiently winterized - check the battery, anti-freeze level, heater, defroster, wipers and windshield washer.

Check the forecast and call 511 or visit 511.ky.gov for the latest condition reports before traveling.

You can also get traffic information for the District 6 counties at www.facebook.com/KYTC.District6.

Avoid nonessential travel if conditions are dangerous.

Dress warmly for the weather - in layers of loose-fitting, lightweight clothing, in anticipation of unexpected emergencies.

Try to keep your gas tank at least two-thirds full to prevent fuel line freezing and to prepare for possible lengthy delays on the roadway.

Make sure a friend or relative is aware of your travel route.

Carry a cell phone.

Make sure your vehicle has an emergency care kit. It should include jumper cables, flares or reflectors, windshield washer fluid, an ice scraper, blankets, nonperishable food, a first aid kit, and traction material.

Drive carefully. Allow plenty of time to get to your destination. Do not use cruise control.

Give a wide berth to snow removal equipment.

Remember that bridges and exit and entrance ramps can be icy when other areas are not.

Stopping in snow requires more braking distance than stopping on dry pavement - up to four times more distance. Make sure to put plenty of distance between yourself and the vehicle ahead.

Be visible. Dull, cloudy days will cut down on visibility, so drive using low-beam headlights.

Steer into the skid. Stay calm and ease your foot off the gas while carefully steering in the direction you want the front of your vehicle to go.

If you don't do your job, you can inhibit our capability to do ours.

Most importantly, always buckle up.

Students at Harrison County Middle School submitted flag designs for the National Youth Art Month Flag design competition. The contest was open to all HCMS students as well as the present 6th grade art classes. Two flag designs were selected from those submitted to compete at the state level. The winner at the state level will have their design made into a flag to be displayed at the National level. The flag design winner from HCMS was 6th grade student Jima Hill and runner up 6th grade student Michael Ann Stephens.

Fish and Wildlife Service, KDF sign agreement protecting Indiana bats on state forests

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet, Division of Forestry announce entering into an agreement to promote the survival, conservation, and recovery of the federally endangered Indiana bat on state forests within the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

The Conservation Memorandum of Agreement provides Kentucky and the Service with a streamlined and programmatic approach to evaluating potential impacts and conservation benefits to the Indiana bat that will result from specific forest management activities occurring on state forests. It also will measure and track the benefits to Indiana bat recovery that are achieved through implementation of those activities.

Some of these recovery benefits include:

- Improving Indiana bat summer maternity habitat and fall swarming habitat;
- Focusing new state forest acquisitions in areas of known Indiana bat habitat, and
- Maintaining the condition of potential and occupied Indiana bat habitat on state forests so that the habitat can be utilized by the bats.

The agreement promotes forest habitat for the Indiana bat through timber stand improvement practices such as mid-story removal. This will not only improve foraging conditions for the bat, it will ensure that suitable roosting trees are left following forest management activities.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry manages 10 Kentucky State Forests containing more than 43,000 acres. Indiana bats are known to occur on at least five of these forests - Big Rivers, Green River, Kentenia, Kentucky Ridge, and Tygarts State Forests. These forests provide important habitat for the Indiana bat across the Commonwealth.

Copies of the agreement can be obtained from either agency. KDF's main office is located at 627 Comanche Trail, Frankfort, KY 40601 and the state forest program coordinator can be reached at 502-564-4496, or at the Service's web site at: www.fws.gov/frankfort or by contacting biologist Jennifer Garland at 502-695-0468 ext. 115, e-mail jennifer_garland@fws.gov, or mail her at U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, 330 W. Broadway, Room 265, Frankfort, KY 40601.

PSC selects overlay for new area code in Western Kentucky, decision means 10-digit dialing for local calls beginning in 2014

A new area code 364 in western Kentucky will occupy the same geographic area as the current area code 270, the Kentucky Public Service Commission (PSC) announced today.

The overlay option is the least disruptive for all customers and imposes the smallest cost on businesses in the area, the PSC said in its order. This is the first area code in Kentucky created by an overlay. Area code 270 was created in 1999 by splitting area code 502.

"This decision means that everyone who now has an area code 270 phone number can keep that number," PSC Chairman David Armstrong said. "The only thing that will change is that 10-digit dialing will be required for local calls beginning in early 2014."

Ten-digit dialing means that an area code must precede the seven-digit phone number for all local calls within the current area code 270 territory. Long-distance calls within area code 270 will require 11-digit (1 plus area code plus number) dialing, like any long-distance call to outside the area. Ten-digit dialing also will be required for all calls where local calling areas span the boundary between area code 270 and adjoining area codes.

With more than a year until final implementation, there will be ample time for a smooth transition that will allow everyone to become familiar with the new dialing rules, Armstrong said.

The PSC noted in its order that public comments received in the case overwhelmingly favored an overlay. The other option was to split area code 270 and designate a portion as area code 364, with both landline and wireless customers in the affected portion required to change their area code as a result.

"Public opinion has shifted dramatically in the six years since the PSC last considered this matter," Armstrong said. "It appears that the public is much less concerned about 10-digit dialing than about the possibility of having to change phone numbers."

Comments from the business community noted that a split would force businesses in the area receiving the new area code to change printed materials, signage and anything else bearing their phone number, the PSC said in its order.

In selecting an overlay, the PSC noted that it has become the preferred method for creating new area codes. Overlays pose the fewest technical issues for implementation by an increasing complex telecommunication industry, the PSC said.

Overlays have been used for all but one (in New Mexico) of the last 24 area codes created nationwide, the PSC noted in today's order.

For example, the West Virginia Public Service Commission in 2008 at first opted to split the state's sole area code. But opposition from the public – especially the business community – forced it to reverse course a month later and create a statewide overlay.

The Kentucky PSC was formally notified in April of the need for a new area code by the North American Numbering Plan Administrator (NANPA), the agency that distributes blocks of phone numbers to provid-

If there was anything that I came to understand more profoundly this year it would have to be the power of instinct: mine, our animals and the forces of ideologies of which I agree and disagree.

I reread my year end column from 2011, which reminded me of where I was 12 months ago; it helps me better appreciate where I am today.

It seems we didn't do too badly, after all, and it's all because both Andy and I recognize the power of instinct.

Before we got sheep, people kept saying "sheep are stupid"; and chickens are stupid; and nature needs to be mowed and paved and tamed and sprayed ... I could go on.

I think that these nay-sayers have been largely wrong because they never took the time to notice instinct.

Sheep eat grass and in order to do so effectively they need to move forward, that's what they do.

It is smart if you live off of grass; and if you don't want to live around your own poop.

Chickens eat grass, too, and move about in search of it and other protein sources (and away from their manure): they are maybe better omnivores than humans. When we decry the instinct of an animal we do so in an anthropomorphic righteousness that deems any behavior outside of what we want "stupid." This year consider it otherwise.

Last December I wanted to raise chickens for eating; and last December we had 10 pregnant ewes that I hung my hopes on delivering lambs in April.

They delivered in so many ways.

We had 13 lambs (I know, we were bound for some trouble.)

We lost our first born to a crushing accident which taught me lambs will get into trouble as they jump and play if there is anything in their midst that might allow for trouble.

I was sick to my stomach over my oversight as their shepherd.

We lost another little girl to parasites, which is the number one killer of sheep, second to domestic dogs. I finally got the hang of it and raised some happy, healthy animals for a fall harvest.

The lessons learned were about good animal husbandry, protection, life, death and the completion of a life cycle meant for food.

This year I learned more about death than the average year.

My first crop of lambs would, of course, be harvested for meat. This was why we got into the sheep business, after all.

The challenge of 2012 was to grow food beyond vegetables, fruit and eggs. We wanted meat to make the offering complete and to fully use our gift of land.

We harvested six ram lambs and nearly 150 chickens for our customers and ourselves.

My friend Angie said "you have done what you set out to do," as I cried in anticipation of taking our lambs to be USDA processed.

I did not cry over the chickens because it was very hard and very dirty work. I did love every one of those chickens but the human emotion is stronger (which is our instinct) when a living being has eyes and lashes and a personality that we can more closely relate to.

The chickens had personality and so did the lambs; they were all cared for with great affection; the lambs were sweet to me, the broilers were not necessarily so, they just wanted me to feed and water them.

I suppose the lambs did, too, but they also courted me in a conscious effort to be favored. Favored here is a lambs' instinct to get food and affection. So perhaps we are more alike than we thought.

Early on in my shepherd training I was instructed that lambs forget their mothers a few months after being weaned.

I do not agree: #0010 (also known as Violet) ran straight to her mother, dropped to her knees and tried to nurse when they were reunited in a pasture several months after weaning.

She figured quickly that her instinct was keen but mama was long dried up.

To this day, Violet and her mother Brownie are still best of friends. And, with them as a guide, we will raise more food for local tables in 2013.

Happy New Year!

As my pastor says, we break every one of God's commandments every day of our lives, if not in our deeds then in our thoughts and motives. Even our best deeds are tinged with self-promotion and self-interest.

The bad news: God lets only the perfect into heaven. The rest of us are toast.

However, here's the good news: Jesus came not just to die to pay the penalty for the sins of his people, for our not-perfectness, but to be perfect for us.

Because he knew we couldn't, Jesus obeyed every single law and commandment of God and said that if we believe we can exchange our imperfection for his perfection, when God asks us why he should let us into his heaven we can say with complete assurance, "You shouldn't. But Jesus said I could on his record, not mine."

That's the only record of perfection God accepts, which should give us all great joy and freedom. If given a choice between having to be perfect for my entire life by working at it from the day I'm born or trusting in Jesus' perfect life lived for me, I'd be a fool not to choose Jesus, especially when I know darn well that I've never lived a perfect moment ever. I probably even sin in my sleep.

Christians are those who believe that in Christ God sees them as perfect, not based on what they do or have done, but solely on what Christ has done. When Christians try to add their own perfection to that of Christ's by keeping score of all the good things they do for God, it's actually a slap in God's face. It's saying, "Jesus, your life, your cross, your sacrifice was nice and all, but it wasn't enough."

So, here's my thought: Let's start 2013 by being perfect, since in Christ that's what we are—we have his perfection as our own.

I can't think of any better way to have a perfectly happy new year.

Fillies win first victory at Williamstown

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Coach Kim Furnish said after Wednesday's game that she had finally got the demon off her back.

Maybe it was a Lady Demon because Furnish and her Harrison County Fillies picked up their first win of the season over the Lady Demons of Williamstown, 70-56, Wednesday.

The win improved the Fillies to 1-6 and dropped the freshman-laden Lady Demons to 3-6 for the season.

The Fillies scored the first six points of the game and appeared to be on their way to an easy win before Williamstown began playing a little better and cut the lead to 17-13 at the end of the first period.

The Fillies had an 11-to-four rebounding edge in the first period to allow them to attempt more shots and make three more field goals than Williamstown.

The two teams traded baskets for the second period with eighth grader Michaela Kennedy sinking a three at the end of the half to cut the Harrison County margin to 31-28 going into the half.

Sophomore Whitney Gray made six of her game total of 10 points in the second period to help the Fillies stay on top.

The third quarter saw the Lady Demons rally to take the lead with around three minutes left at 39-38.

The Fillies then rolled out to a 10-to-three advantage for the remainder of the period to hold a 48-41 lead at the end of the third quarter.

The lead fluctuated between three and seven points for the early part of the fourth quarter before Williamstown had to begin to foul and hope that Harrison County would miss so they could score and cut into the margin.

But the Fillies made 10 of 15 late free throws to add some points to the lead for the final 70-56 score.

Sophomore guard Chelsea Ingram made 11 of 12 chances in the second half to bring the victory home for Harrison County.

The Fillies for the game were only 14 of 27 from the line for 52 percent which was ironically, the same percentage that they had from the floor.

Williamstown was 15 of 22 from the line but only 19 of 60 from the field and three of 17 from behind the arc.

The Fillies were zero of four from behind the line.

Both teams had four players in double figures, lead by junior Jordan Doram with 25 points and 13 rebounds.

Ingram added 15, sophomore Kassidy Cook had 11 and Gray scored 10 points for the Fillies.

Williamstown was led by four freshmen. Katie Cheek had 11 points followed by Sammie Souder with 10. Olivia Dezarn and Hannah Scroggins also added 10 points each.

Doram's 13 rebounds led the Fillies to a game-high 31 boards.

Williamstown grabbed 26 for the night with Souder and Scroggins each pulling down eight.

Furnish was pleased for the girls as they won their first contest.

"After the second half began, we had more leadership both in word and in action from Jordan and Chelsea," she noted. "That is what our more experienced players have to do for the younger ones to relax and play ball. I am certainly glad we come back to play right away on Friday. It will be good to build on our success."

The Fillies junior varsity improved to 5-3 for the year with a 50-9 win over the Williamstown junior varsity. Ingram led the way with 11 points and Taylor Reffett added 10 for Harrison County. Also on Wednesday night the Fillies freshman team lost to Paris by the score of 24-18.

Thorobreds split games in Stop DWI Classic in Covington

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Thorobreds played some of their better basketball of the young season as they lost a tight game on Friday to Covington Holmes and then won a cliff hanger on Saturday with Russell.

Friday saw the Breds lose to the host school, Holmes, 82-73, after a hard-fought game that saw Harrison County give one of the state's top teams all they wanted for the contest.

The Breds took an early lead in the game and led late into the first period before Holmes went on an 11-point run to take a 16-10 lead to a 16-21 deficit.

The game was a fast-paced, up-and-down-the-floor affair with both teams committing multiple turnovers in the first half.

In this opening period, Holmes' leading scorer for the night, sophomore guard James Bolden scored nine points on a variety of driving shots, pull up jumpers and a three pointer.

The Bulldogs led 17-16 at the end of the first stanza.

Coach Larry Kendall inserted Grant Carr into the line up in the second period and the 6-foot-

1 junior stymied Bolden for the time being.

Unfortunately, junior Daequan Glover, who was averaging two points per game in Holmes' first 10 contests, fired in seven of his game total 18 in the second period to help Holmes to a 37-33 halftime lead.

Carr and senior guard Scott Kendall pitched in seven and eight points to pace the Breds in the second period.

The Breds cut into the Holmes lead in the third quarter led by resurgent play of junior Dillon Pulliam.

The 6-foot-2 junior had been held to four in the first half spending several pine minutes but he came out hot in the second half.

Pulliam scored eight of the Breds' 15 third quarter points as the visitors trailed only by 50-48 going into the last period.

While the Breds were gaining in the third quarter, point guard Kendall picked up his third foul and Carr picked up his third which left Harrison County in a defensive jam guarding the quick cat Bolden and fellow guard, senior Quan Palmer.

Starting the fourth period with Carr on the bench, Kendall was forced to stay with Bolden and Palmer who scored six quick points to open the lead quickly to 10 points at 62-52.

The Breds trailed by as many as 12 points in the last period before they rallied to cut the lead to six with less than a minute to play.

At this point the Bulldogs made eight of nine free throws to put the game in their win column.

Holmes improved to 11-0 with the win while the Breds fell to 5-3.

Pulliam led the Thorobreds with 25 points with Kendall scoring 12.

Bolden had 23 for Holmes with Glover scoring 18, Chris Englemon 13 and Palmer 11. Harrison County was out rebounded by 32 to 23 and committed 32 turnovers to 22 for the Bulldogs.

Saturday evening the Russell Red Devils brought an 8-2 record into the game with the 5-3 Thorobreds.

The Devils of the 16th Region had their hat handed to them on Friday as Scott High's Eagles ran them out of Holmes' gym 81-52.

The Breds expected a good battle as a good team doesn't take kindly to that kind of treatment.

Harrison County got the battle that they were expecting but not before they put on a scoring clinic in the first half.

The hot-shooting Thorobreds scored 28 points in the first period and 32 in the second to take a 60-42 lead into the locker room at the intermission.

"I messed up at halftime," admitted Coach Larry Kendall. "I told the players that we couldn't shoot that well in the second half and to be more selective in their shots. They froze up and we made only 18 for the second half."

The Red Devils cut into the lead trimming 12 points off the lead by the end of the third period. The Breds were not hitting and having a few turnovers to boot and the Russell squad saw blood in the water.

But Harrison County righted the ship just enough to come away with a 78-76 win and a 6-3 record heading into the Lake Cumberland Holiday Classic in Somerset on Thursday.

The Breds play 7-6 Louisville Southern at 6 p.m. Thursday and then depending on that outcome will play either Somerset (7-2) or Danville (3-5). Other teams in the upper bracket of the tournament are Southwestern Pulaski (9-2), East Jessamine (10-3), Mayfield (5-5) and Louisville Manual (6-4).

Senior center Tyler Wagner was the leading scorer along with Pulliam on Saturday. Each player had 16 points while Scott Kendall had 15 and Jordan Martin 11 with a team high six rebounds.

Senior Kyle Scaggs had one half of Russell's points as he scored 38 points on 16 of 27 attempts.

Junior Johnny McGuire added 14 with a game high total of seven rebounds.

Holmes was the winner of the Stop DWI Classic as they edged Scott High 74-69 Saturday night.

MIKE'S MINUTE

Let's have a Happy New Year and a home court advantage

When the Fillies traveled to Williamstown last Wednesday and won their first game of the year, I was reminded of what a good home court advantage can do for a high school team.

While it is true that the Lady Demons lost this home game, what little crowd that was in attendance supporting them made its presence known.

When the Fillies went to the locker room for final instructions before the game, the Williamstown band practiced a 30-second song and a one minute ditty while the teams were in the locker room.

One may have and some did wonder why the length of the song or shortness of the song in this case and why play tunes of these lengths. I'll tell you later.

When the Fillies came back onto the floor before player introductions the band played the song that is played when there is a strip tease going on as to say that here comes a group of strippers.

Then after the game began and the first time out was called, the band, which was right behind the Harrison County bench, played the 30-second song at full volume making it very difficult for Furnish to get her message to the team.

The same occurred during a full time out when the minute version was played at a deafening tone so as to make hearing the coach very difficult.

Gamesmanship at its best if you ask me.

It reminded me of my high school days and before at Tell City High School when the teams sat on the end and the band was right next to the visitors and played during time outs and even during the game occasionally.

The cheerleaders, before each game, did a cheer that was a chant saying that we were glad the other team was there and we were going to win the game.

They lined up along the side line and after the final buzzer sounded to send the teams to the bench for introductions the cheerleaders did this yell.

Then during the games when the Marksmen would make a run, the band would play the William Tell Overture and a couple of football players would run up and down the floor with Tell City banners flying.

This always got the student section involved more than they were already and believe me was intimidating to the visitors.

(The William Tell Overture or the Lone Ranger theme song without the Hi Ho Silver was played since Tell City was named for William Tell.)

So, with all of this said, I would like to see some home cooking on the Hilltop.

All in good fun yet making the visitors' time in Cynthiana memorable in more ways than one.

For the Fillies home games, I would start by playing Fat Bottomed Girls by Queen when the visitors come out onto the floor.

It would be good if the Stable could learn the lyrics which are

Fillies drop three more at Pendleton, change line up

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The effort that the Harrison County Fillies put forth in Friday's 56-52 loss to Covington Latin was all Coach Kim Furnish could stand.

"We came home and practiced for two hours and I found some girls who wanted to compete for us," she noted. "I had to make some changes after Friday night's effort."

The Fillies started from the gate slowly in the 5 p.m. start in the first game of the Edwardo's Classic at Pendleton County High School.

After sophomore Whitney Gray scored the first point on a free throw, Covington Latin scored the next nine and were in the lead at 16-6 at the end of the first period.

A pair of 5-foot-6 seniors led the Trojans as the Fillies were at least a step slow going after loose balls and rebounds.

Anna Matchinga and Bridgette Hildreth came into the game averaging just over 16 points each and lived up to their pre game billing.

Behind the senior duo, the 9th Region squad led Harrison County by 13 at the half 36-23.

The lead didn't change in the third period as Latin continued to out-hustle Harrison County and take advantage of the Fillies ball handling lapses.

The score at the end of the third period was 48-35 with the Fillies' staff looking for answers.

Harrison County made a run in the late stages of the fourth period cutting the lead to three with 15 seconds left.

After a time out, sophomore guard Chelsea Ingram shot an unexplainable 25 footer that hit nothing and the Trojans escaped.

Jordan Doram led Harrison County in scoring with 27 points and 16 rebounds followed by Madison Philpot's nine points.

Hildreth had 21 for the Trojans followed by 19 for Matchinga. Covington Latin improved to 5-5 while the Fillies fell to 1-7.

After the Friday evening practice, Furnish installed freshman Kayla Ford into the starting line up for the Grant County and Pendleton County games on Saturday.

Harrison County lost both of these games 55-46 to Grant County and 61-38 to Pendleton County.

"Ford had just the spark we needed," Furnish said. "While we didn't win either game, she gave us the team play that we need from this team. She is a hard-working defender and did a really good job on the boards."

Grant County jumped out on the Fillies early in the 11 a.m. game Saturday morning and led the entire game.

The Fillies cut the lead from 16 at the half to the final nine-point margin but could get no closer.

Harrison County played much better against the host Lady Cats in the final game on Saturday.

After falling behind by a 14-6 score at the end of the first period, the Fillies came roaring back to take the lead at the half by a 21-17 score.

In the second half Harrison County had trouble scoring when they needed a key basket and Pendleton County found the range taking a 38-31 lead at the end of the third period.

After trailing and being unable to hit from the field, Harrison County had to foul and the Lady Cats hit on 13 of 15 free tosses in the final stanza for the final 61-38 score.

"I was very pleased with the girls' effort in both of the Saturday games," Furnish noted. "We were competitive against Pendleton County until we went cold from the field."

The junior varsity lost the first game 33-21 to Grant County, but came back to defeat Pendleton County 39-36 in overtime in the second game.

Furnish concluded, "We were able to get some much needed playing time for some of our younger players and I felt that the overall program got better from this experience."

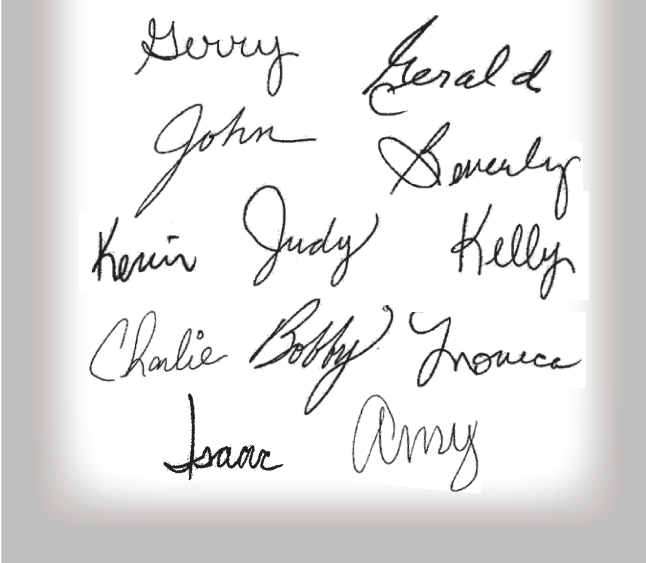

The Fillies will next play in Bourbon County's Tournament on Thursday at 3:30 p.m. against powerful Shelby Valley (8-1). The Fillies will then advance to play on both Friday and Saturday at times to be determined.

PEACE ON EARTH

And warm wishes to you, our neighbors and friends, this holiday season.

available on line like everything else.

I would reposition the Stable and the band behind the visitor's bench and put the visitors section directly across from it.

The band could then find a few songs that would have lyrics or a refrain that last one minute and/or 30 seconds to play during times out.

Then the band could also find a peppier song than The Horse by Cliff Nobles to play during a time out when the Fillies or the Breds are making a run.

We need to create some enthusiasm.

The Stable masters I am sure can find some appropriate yet humorous cheers to give us an edge somehow.

I haven't thought of a song for the boys' visiting teams yet, but of course Three Blind Mice, would be good for the officials. Most of them have a sense of humor and would laugh at the reference.

Just some thoughts going into the New Year. Hope everyone is having a Merry Christmas and will have the best of 2013.
